10. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Corrigin Town Hall and Road Board Office (fmr), two civic buildings comprising a large single storey Town Hall of masonry construction and a Road Board Office of stone and brick construction, both designed in the Inter-War Free Classical style, has cultural heritage significance for the following reasons:

Corrigin Town Hall was one of the largest and most ornate Town Halls in Western Australia at its completion in 1929;

Corrigin Town Hall and Roads Board Office are very fine and elegant examples of the Inter-war Free Classical architectural style, and the Town Hall is especially notable for the technical design expertise and the execution of its very fine vaulted plaster ceiling;

the place reflects the significant growth and development of the Wheatbelt, particularly Corrigin, in the 1920s, with expansion of the agricultural area under the Soldier Settlement Scheme;

both buildings are representative examples of the fine design work of renowned architect Percy W. Harrison in the inter-war period;

Corrigin Town Hall was erected in 1929 as part of Western Australia's centenary celebrations;

the place has been the civic centre of Corrigin since the 1920s, and is highly valued by both the local and wider community for aesthetic, social, spiritual and cultural reasons, and contributes to a sense of place, and the place has landmark quality in the context of Goyder Street and the townscape of Corrigin.

The 1982 kitchen additions to the Town Hall have low significance.
