10. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Exchange Hotel, Kalgoorlie, a two-storey tuck-pointed brick and iron hotel constructed in the Federation Filigree style, has cultural heritage significance for the following reasons:

the place is a fine example of the Federation Filigree style, and retains many original features including the staircase, stained glass windows, timber doors with architraves and top lights, sash windows, skirting boards and timber flooring;

the place exhibits all the Federation exuberance of the hotel industry at the time, particularly as it appeared on the Goldfields. The protruding gabled verandah and corner belvedere tower are particularly impressive; the place is a key element in the landmark group of gold-boom buildings at the corner intersection of Hannan and Maritana Streets, and makes a very important contribution to the wider Hannan Street streetscape;

the place is a fine example of the work of prominent Goldfields architects Hawkins and Sprigg, and, the place is one of the oldest hotels in Kalgoorlie having continually operated as a hotel since its construction in 1900/01 and was built on the site of an earlier hotel of the same name.
