10. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE
Old Gaol and Police Station Complex, a single storey building of random-rubble stone with shingle roofing, has cultural heritage significance for the following reasons:
 - the place is a fine example of convict built architecture;
 - the place is characterised by its simplicity of form, materials, texture and colour, contributes to the aesthetic quality of the streetscape of Clinton Street;
 - the place forms part of a civic precinct which contributes to the townscape of Toodyay;
 - the place is representative of the activities associated with the early settlement and development of Toodyay;

the place has held a significant role in the Toodyay community, originally as a lock-up and police station and presently as a museum; and, the place is closely associated with the Colonial Clerk of Works, Richard Roach Jewell.

The outbuilding at the rear of the complex has little significance and does not form part of this assessment.
