10. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Terrace of Six Houses at 19-29 Holdsworth Street, comprising single storey brick and iron row houses, has cultural heritage significance as a housing group for the following reasons:

the group, together with Warders Terrace (1897) and Seven Terrace Houses (1898), demonstrates the development of residential areas of Fremantle associated with the State's gold boom and the construction of the Inner Harbour deep water port in the late 1890s;

the group, together with Warders Terrace (1897) and Seven Terrace Houses (1898), exhibits characteristics of the Victorian Filigree style and contributes to the aesthetic qualities of the streetscape of Holdsworth Street; and the place collectively demonstrates the standard of residential accommodation built for workers in 1903, and the subsequent changes in ownership illustrate the social mobility of the Fremantle migrant population.
