10. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE
Nedlands War Memorial, comprising a five-metre high war memorial constructed of Donnybrook stone in the Inter-War Art Deco style, an octagonal glass and iron light, four brass plaques, two flagpoles, in a landscaped setting, has cultural heritage significance for the following reasons:

the place is rare as the only war memorial constructed with a light in Western Australia, demonstrating a unique means to symbolise the eternal struggle of the fallen;

the place is rare as a war memorial constructed during World War Two;

the place commemorates the fallen from conflicts in World War One, World War Two, Korea, Borneo, Malaya, and Vietnam and is one of the few remaining sites used to commemorate Victory over the Pacific Day.

Items considered of low significance include the paving, the four light boxes at ground level, and the landscaping.

Items considered as intrusive include the power box and the layout of the road.
