Taxi Rank and Women's Rest Room, a single storeyed timber framed building with shingled roof, has cultural heritage significance for the following reasons:
 - the place demonstrates a continuing provision of public amenities for local travellers, who originally utilised horse-drawn cabs, and now use taxis;
 - the place illustrates a civic concern for cabmen and women travellers; and,
 - the place, a recognised tourist attraction due to its mock Tudor architecture and siting, is an Albany landmark.
