10. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE.
St. Andrew's Church, a large brick and timber church with slate roof, has cultural heritage significance for the following reasons:
 - the place is historically important as the principal place of worship of the Presbyterian congregation in Perth and was the focus of Presbyterian activity in Perth for much of the twentieth century;
 - the place contributes to the streetscape of St. Georges Terrace as the south-eastern extension of the Central Government Precinct and is a minor landmark within the precinct;
 - the site of the place is of historical significance as the former location of the cottage of Dr. Collie, the Colonial Surgeon, which was demolished to build the church; and, the place is a fine example of the work of the architect James Hine.
